

Fun and Frivolity Answers

Trek Trivia

TOS: Delta Vega

TNG: Utopia Planitia Fleet Yards

DS9: The Rio Grande

VOY: Intrepid-class

Logic

1. Seven. He sold three and a half plus a half-record more (which totals four) to Professor Bumble. Then he sold one and a half plus half a record more (which totals two) to Professor McGonagall. Duncan was then left with only one record.

2. The king's daughter suggested that the two horsemen trade horses. Each horseman would now try to win the race since, if he did, his horse would come in second and he would win the king's daughter's hand in marriage.

3. Actually, in any given year, Christmas Day and New Year's Day always fall on different days of the week. Christmas, don't forget, is 51 weeks later in the year than New Year's Day. 1939 was no different.

Logic Puzzle

Houdini used the alias Clyde Glyde to root out Rottanya (1). He posed as Lincoln Logge at a factory (2). He posed as Nestor Bester in Frankfort where he pursued the Yeti (4). When Houdini donned the guise of a web designer to collar the Golem (3) at a circus (4), he did not pose as Favio Rojas in Louisville (4). He posed as AJ LePage in Cincinnati (1). When he derailed Diobolo with the horse-trader disguise that he donned at a television station (2), he posed as Favio Rojas. To capture Evida in Cleveland (3), Houdini used the alias Lincoln Logge. While posing as a milkman while pursuing a villain in Akron (2), he used the alias Clyde Glyde. Houdini disguised himself as a cocker spaniel in the park (1). When he posed as Lincoln Logge at a factory, he disguised himself as a schoolboy. He used the alias Nestor Bester while disguised as a cocker spaniel. He posed as Clyde Glyde at a hotel.

In summary:

AJ LePage: Web designer, Cincinnati, Circus, the Golem

Clyde Glyde: Milkman, Akron, Hotel, Rottanya

Favio Rojas: Horse-trader, Louisville, Television Station, Diobolo

Lincoln Logge: Schoolboy, Cleveland, Factory, Evida

Nestor Bester: Cocker Spaniel, Frankfort, Park, the Yeti