Trek Trivia

TOS: Fizzbin

TNG: Visual Instrument and Sensory Organ Replacement

DS9: A group of World War II French freedom fighters

VOY: Lieutenant Carey

Logic

1. Neither. Contrary to what most people believe, the first day of the 24th Century will be January 1st, 2301, not January 1st, 2300. The beginning of a century will start with the year one, not the year zero.

2. Every casino in the world would go bankrupt without a house limit on stakes. Without it, gamblers would keep doubling their stakes until they won. No matter how bad a losing streak the players might have, they would eventually win.

3. Interestingly enough, the thick glass is more likely to crack since glass is a poor conductor of heat. In a thin glass, the heat passes more quickly from the glass to the surrounding air, causing all parts of the glass to expand equally. When the hot water is poured into the thicker glass, the inner surface expands but the outer surface does not. It is this difference that causes stress on the glass and therefore leads to cracking.

Logic Puzzle

The shampoo with the papaya scent contains wheat germ (2). Hair & Neck contains mango extract (4). Prelk, which has a garden herb scent (1), doesn't contain honey or Vitamin E oil (1); it contains aloe. The shampoo with the mixed fruit scent doesn't contain honey (3) or Vitamin E oil (5); it has mango extract. The rose-scented shampoo doesn't contain Vitamin E oil (5); it has honey. The jasmine-scented shampoo has Vitamin E oil, so it's for oily hair (5) and therefore is not Debonair, which is for dry hair (1), or Vital Season (3); it is Blecks. The papaya-scented shampoo isn't Vital Season (3); it's Debonair. The rose-scented shampoo is Vital Season. Hair & Neck isn't for damaged or sensitive hair (4); it's for normal hair. Prelk, which contains aloe, isn't for damaged hair (2); it's for sensitive hair. Vital Season is for damaged hair.

In summary:

Blecks: Vitamin E oil, Oily, Jasmine

Debonair: Wheat Germ, Dry, Papaya

Hair & Neck: Mango Extract, Normal, Mixed Fruit

Prelk: Aloe, Sensitive, Garden Herb

Vital Season: Honey, Damaged, Rose
